CLINICAL DIRECTOR, HEALTHY COMMUNITY ADVISORY COUNCIL CHAIR

A professor of Clinical Medicine and Pediatrics, Dr. Mary Ciccarelli is a devoted physician and educator — having served as both residency director and vice chair for education in the Indiana University School of Medicine. As Health Promotion Clinical Director and Chair of our Healthy Community Advisory Council, Dr. Ciccarelli is now focused on improving care for persons with disabilities across the lifecourse, working on improved identification and management in a comprehensive system of care with successful transition into adult life.

"We need to ensure that the dialogue on health equity also includes intellectual disabilities, which has traditionally not been the case. Special Olympics has the tools to support your inclusive health journey."

Vice Admiral Jerome M. Adams, MD
Surgeon General of the United States
